

casting@pastpreservers.com

Past Preservers People

Dr. Mark Schwartz

Archaeologist, American

Bio:

Dr. Mark Schwartz is currently working with several researchers examining shipwrecks in Lake Michigan using Remotely Operated Vehicles. He is interested in presenting issues of archaeology and history to the public, which can be seen through his various media projects & publications. Mark has also written several articles on archaeology and military history for popular publications like Ancient Warfare, History Magazine, Great Lakes Life and Times, and Dig Magazine.

Education:

PhD in Anthropology at Northwestern University
M.A. in Anthropology at Northwestern University
B.A. in Sociology at Anthropology at Swarthmore College

Media Experience:

Mark recently appeared in the Channel Four Production "Trojan War, The New Evidence" and was an on-camera expert in History Channel's "Battles BC", and an associate producer of "Bible Battles" He also featured in National Geographic Channel's series When Rome Ruled on the episode titled, "War Machine"

Professional Experience:

Mark is currently the Assistant Director of the Hirbemerdon Tepe Archaeological Project in Southeast Turkey and an Associate Professor at Grand Valley State University in Michigan. Mark also has numerous academic publications and has served on a plethora of archaeological field projects in the past.

casting@pastpreservers.com