

casting@pastpreservers.com

Past Preservers People

Dr. Alexei Vranich

Archaeologist, American

Bio:

Dr. Alexei Vranich received his PhD in 1999 and has been conducting his research in South America ever since. Nevertheless, he has extensive research experience in a variety of countries including, Spain, Italy, India, Peru, Bulgaria, and Costa Rica. Alexei is fascinated by human history, and enjoys traveling and experiencing new things.

Education:

PhD in Anthropology from the University of Pennsylvania

Media Experience:

Alexei has previous experience in a variety of media forms; including, radio, television, and magazine appearances. Alexei has hosted a pilot episode for the Discovery Channel and he has worked with National Geographic, The Sciences, Archaeology Magazine, and a variety of national and international newspapers.

Professional Experience:

Alexei is presently an assistant professor at the Cotsen Institute of Archaeology at UCLA, where he is conducting his archaeological research. Alexei has also been recognized by the National Science Foundation for his innovative application of technology in the study of the past.

casting@pastpreservers.com